I had a really nice holiday last month. I went to Hopsfield, which is a small country town with a daily market, and shops selling local products such as honey and handmade woollen jumpers. Hopsfield is near a national park which has a large lake and lots of different trees. It was very close, only a half hour drive away and so I went trekking a lot. One day I also went on a longer, more difficult trek up into the Hopsfield mountain range, it was very tiring but the views were wonderful. The weather was quite pleasant most of the time, but on one day it got quite hot and I got very red. And the food? That was great. They had my favourite - sausages and mashed potatoes!
